Leírás

In connection with the exhibition in the Bethnal Green Museum in London, it seems necessary to me to present a detailed report on the development of the doll manufacturers König & Wernicke.

Such a report is especially interesting because it throws a light on the doll types manufactured in Waltershausen. They couldn't be completely explored as yet.

The firm has been founded in 1912, but the means of examination and research have been heavily restricted by World War I. immediately following.
